

CLAIMS

What is claimed is:

- 5 1. A personalized health video system, method and apparatus which comprises: the components of; a personal data collecting means, Internet enablement means, information system, video serving means, server operating system, user operating system, graphical creation means, viewing means, audio means, relationship generating means, script generating means, charts generating means, chart reviewing means, and video library means; the components arranged
- 10 and interconnected and enabled in an operating personalized health video system.